And whisper to our aching heart, We'll meet again to-morrow. But when to-morrow comes, 'tis still

An Image of to-day, 3 Still tears our heavy eyelids fill, Still monra we those away. And when that morrow, too, is past-(A vesterday of sorrow)-

Hope, smiling, cheats us to the last,

With visious to merrow! Animal Fun.

Some birds chase each other about it play, but perhaps the crane and trumpier is the most extraordinary. The latter stands on one leg, hops about in the most excentric manner, and throws summersaults. The Americans call it the mad bird on account of these singularities -Water birds, such as ducks and geese, dive after each other and clear the surface with outstretched neck and flapping wings, throwing abundant spray around. Deers often engage in sham battle, or trial of strength, by pushing their horns together and pushing for the mustery.

All animals pretending violence in their play, rtop short of exercising it. The dog takes the greatest precaution not to injure but lossens it, so as to enable the patient to expects by his bite, and the curang outang, in wreatling with his keeper pretends to injure by his bite, and makes feints of biting him.

Some animals carry out the semblance of catching their prey; young cars for instance, leap after every sla'l and moving object, even to the leaves strewn by the autumn wind: and the body and the tail vibrating with emotion, bound on the moving leaf, and again when they see another move springing upon that,

Bengger saw young jaguars and caugars playing with round substances like kittens. There is a story of a magpie that was busily employed in a garden gathering pebbles and with much selemnity and studied air, buried them in a note made to receive a post. After dropping each stone it cried, 'enerack' triumphanily, and then set off for another. On examining the spot, a poor tond was found in the bole, which the beard-hearted magpie was stoning for his am usement.

A Strange Dose.

One pleasant Sundy morning, when the liquor law was somewhat enforced in Boston, a tall, rogged Scotchman entered an apothecary store and asked: 'Have ye any spirits of alcohol? The shopes are closed, and I canna get a quaigh o' Glenival or I-lap. I'm thirsty. Canna ye gie ms a wee drap o' somethin' warm

It really seemed a hard case, and the goodhearted apothecary helped him to what he supposed to be an uncommonly stiff horn of pure spirits of alcohol. The man who drank it off gave one wild look, then spread his two hands suddenly over the abdominal portion of his person, low as any other house in the West, and no misrep and immediately vacated the premises.

The apothecary was startled. What was the matter? He took down the vessel from which he had noured the devouring fluid, and found he had given the man by mistake a bumper of aquafortis! He was frightened half to death. The man had left his hat behind him, and the othecary, barehended, rushed out with it in his hand, his hair flying in the wind, and made hat pursuit after the fugitive; but be was hopelessly gone. What a life the poor feil w lived for three months! He was afraid to open the daily newspapers, lest be should see recorded the mysterious and melancholy death of his victom in the public streets .-At length, however, his fears had died

Nothing was heard of the missing suf- Bureaus, Extention Tables ferer until about six months from the event when one Sunday morning who should walk in but the individual himself!

'Have you got any more o' that liquor geid me the last time I was here?' said he to the astonished apothecary. 'If ye have, gie me a horn. I never tasted onything like it. It went right to the spot, and I felt it for a formight !' But the apothecary contented himself this time by giving his returned customer a glass of pure spirits, and his old hat which he had left the time before.

A Traveller's Sang Fold.

What a rleasant thing it is to see a man make the best of an unavoidable discomfiture, instead of boring himself to death about a thing that can't be helped. A Triend tells us of a good-natured wag travelling by 'stage' between two distant towns in Maine, when the vehicle was suddenly arrested by impassable enow banks, far from any other dwelling than a small log-tavern, to which the half-frezen pas sengers with difficulty finally wandered .-All but our wag were grumbling at their fate; he, however, hailed the land lord, got himself a toddy, and then ask-'How many folks are there in this town? 'About fifteen bundred,' answered Boni-'Well, all I can say is, you've got more snow in proportion to your population, than any other town in Maine.'

Dobson's Stock. Farmer Dobson, writes a correspondent, was a very particular old man, and every pight invariably counted all his stock before going to bed. It chauced, once on a time, that he fell sick, and the counting business fell on his son John. Just before bedtime in comes John, and the old man says :

'John, have you counted all the cattle? 'Yes,' says John. 'Are the sows all there?' 'All there,' says John.

'And the sheep ?' "Yes."

'And the horses?' 'Yes.'

'Now, John, just run down and wake up the old hen and count her, and we'll go right to bed.

A Sure Thing.

Hearing a man complain that the Republican aditors 'han become such liars that for his part he didn't believe any of them.' raminds us of the old story of the miller and his three sons. Coming into the mill and finding a grist in the hopper, the old man cried out:

'Tom, have you tolled this grist?' 'Yes, sir.'

'Bill, have you tolled this grist?' 'Yes, sir,

*Sam, have you tolled this grist?" 'Yes, sir.'

'You are all a pack of lying scoundrels.' says the old man. 'I don't believe a word you say—I'll toll it myself.' THE SPIRIT OF CONVERTED REBELS -Some will use coarse cotton, linen, silk and twine. It runs easier, faster and stiller than any other machine. It forms, with a single thread as in hand sewing, a flat, even and elastic seam, differing from every other stitch, each loop being twisted by means of the 'ROTATING HOOK,' and drawing the twist into the goods thus securely fastening every stitch, so that the seam will bear to be cut at frequent intervals, and in that case even, the seam is warranted NCT TO are in wear,

Old worn out family garments, bosoms, pants, dresser, where was the greatest competition, and to this stitch there was the greatest competition, and to this stitcleremiums have been awarded for its superiority, elapremiums have been awarded for its superiority, elasticity and beauty.

A Patented Device prevents the possibility of the machine being run in the wrong direction, or the balance wheel ever wearing or touching the dress. By another ingenious Patent improvement, the Needle cannot be act wrong, thus avoiding the great trouble of other machines. In this it is so easy that a child may set it in the dark with unerring correctness every time.

NO BREAKING OF NEEDLES.

The blade of the needle is less than % of an inch ong, and is straight. It is less than hulf the length of other machine needles, many of which are curved, therefore more castly bent or broken—a great source of annoyance, expense and trouble.

The llemer and Feller can never be set wrong.—Any one may adjust them in, the dark. The hom may Any one may adjust them in the dark. The hem may be of any with. No other hemmer or feller is like this. It turns the hem on the right or under side. It will not drop stitches, as the needle is always set right, the blade short and straight does not vibrate, ke longer ones. Willcox & Gibbs Sewing Machine is run by steam at 4000 stitches per minute—other machines only at from 400 to 1200, with safety.

They are manufactured with Mathematical Precision. Hence each part is interchangeble, and can be readily replaced in case of accident.

They will not get out of order. We have known it intimately for several years. Many thousands are already in use here, and far as we know, not one in family use has ever cost a time to repair, or ever been out of order at all. They will last a generation, if properly cared for. None who have used it can be persuaded to use any other.

Willcax & Gibbs Sewing Machine works at an instant's notice, and nover stone "nunccountable." No. thant's notice, and never stops "unaccountably." Not one operator in ten on the Wilcox & Gibbs will break a neadle or drop a stitch in a year. The Wilcox & Gibbs in the hands of any one, knows no "akipa." "drops," "jumps" or "misses." The roundness, even-ness, durability and beauty of its stitch.

DURNING FLUID, Camphene, Lard Oil, pure Eci phant Oil, Wax and Sperm Candles, for sale low, at Sept. 9, 1856. nl2 J. H. BROWN'S.

H AVING experimented with medicine in the treat-ment of diseases for years, laying saide all profu-dices, has examined in the meantime all the various systems and schools of medicine, and have selected such aystems and schools of medicine, and have selected such remedies as I can demonstrate to be safe and efficient rejecting all mineral poisons. To remove acute disease is comparatively an easy task; it is the curing of chronic diseases that requires knowledge combined with patience and porseverance tempered with kindness. It is in the latter class of diseases where physicians mostly make their failures. Having given thi class of diseases may special attention, I profess to b prerared to treat all chronic diseases with positive success. I mean all that are curable cases, unless it be conditionally, so that patients may depend upod my declaration. I profess to treat successfully all chronic diseases of the langs, Liver, Bronchia Nursigia Paralysis, Rheumatian, and all derangements of the nervous system. Fistula and Piles successfully treated in from thirty to sixty days, without the use of the knife; or much additional pain. I protess to freat with unparalleled success the lothsome disease known by the name of Cancer, in all its stage, without the nee of the kintle or any harsh treatment. The best of references can begiven from citizens of St. Lonis, where I devoted my practice for the last three years. I have now in my office Cancers, Tumors, weighing from ½ to 2 lbs. that I have removed with success, without the use of the knife.
